Garrison Charged with Embezzlement Of $6,400 in Grand Jury Indictments Questionable Checks Totaling $6,174 Listed

The jury listed five recommendations designed to tighten up certain operations of the county.

Garrison on Sept. 28 was named in nine indictments charging him with embezzlement of county money in the amount of $3,367. This amount, State's Attorney Wilson explained, is contained in the indictments returned yesterday.

The grand jury also yesterday returned indictments against Eugene Potts, Cecil Simon, Bennie Joe Hartwell and Mae Kauble.

Potts was indicted on two counts of rape and of being a habitual criminal—and his bail was set at $5,000 by C. Ross Reynolds of Vienna, the presiding judge.

Cecil Simon and Bennie Joe Hartwell were indicted on burglary and larceny charges in connection with a burglary of Godard's Farm Market and Mae Kauble was indicted on a charge of forging a signature on a note. Bail for the three was set at $2,000.

List Questionable Checks

Wilson and Robinson pointed out that the questionable checks not included in the indictments were drawn on the office earnings account where there was no cancelled check, no photostat and where the entry was eradicated from the records.

There were 14 of these checks listed by the Belleville auditing firm, Rice and Bedel. Photostats, however, were available at the two local banks on five of the 14.

Also, Wilson said, there was a total of $734.60 involved which already was beyond the statute of limitations.

Besides returning the indictments

Jury Lists Five Suggestions to Operate County

The September circuit court grand jury returned a list of five recommendations for county operations along with its list of indictments yesterday.

The recommendations, signed by Willie Robinson, foreman of the grand jury, are designed to tighten up county court house procedure.

One item declared that whereas the records indicate that the Board of Review for the year 1954 drew more money as pay than was law full, "it is recommended that the county board use all legal processes at its command to collect the said illegal per diem pay collected by the aforesaid Board of Review."

State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson said that this board, which went in session on May 17, continued until Dec. 11 which the last possible date it could have remained in session was Oct. 7 and that each drew in pay amounts of $540 for the time they were in session between Oct. 7 and Dec. 11. Members, he said, were William Alfred Smith, Herman McFarlin and John H. Carner.

Another recommendation said that "whereas certain records in the office of the county clerk (Don B. Garrison) are incomplete and have apparently been altered, it is recommended that all such records concerned with the payment of moneys be kept under lock and key at all times when not in use."

The other three recommendations.

It is recommended that no county board member receive more than one day's pay for one day's service regardless of how many committee meetings may be attended in any one day.

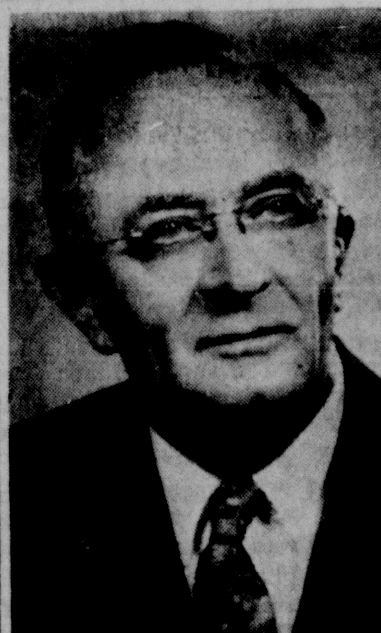

It is recommended that all county employees, except the elected county officials whose salaries are on a yearly basis and set by the statute, including the board of review and all deputies and extra clerks and members of the various committees, be paid only after presentation of a written claim duly sworn to and presented to the county board.

It is recommended that all members of the county board be furnished with copies of the annual audit.

Ease Housing Rules to Permit Older Citizens

An amendment to the U. S. Housing Act of 1937 contained in the Housing Act of 1956 has liberalized requirements in connection with low-rent housing to permit the local authorities to

a. Admit to occupancy one person over 65 years of age;
b. Or an unrelated non-elderly person or persons under 65 years of age with a single person 65 years of age or over.

These are subject to the usual requirements that they live together in the project in units of appropriate size and that their incomes and resources are available for the group.

This amendment to the Housing Act makes a radical change in the eligibility requirements according to J. L. Steinmarch, the executive director of the Housing Authority of Saline county. Heretofore when applications for housing were made by single individuals, they were not eligible and the Housing Authority was not able to house these senior citizens, who, through no fault of their own were residuums of families and needed housing.

The Federal Government, realizing the urgent need for housing these older people, have been designing their housing to provide accommodations for these groups. The local Housing Authority is pleased that its unit design, permits the housing of these older people as its housing has one bedroom units, all on the ground floor. This type of unit is available at times on all of the projects in Harrisburg and Eldorado.

For further information regarding these changes in eligibility standards, contact J. L. Steinmarch, Executive Director at the Housing Authority Office located at 927 Barnett Street, Harrisburg, Ill., or Phone 1101.

Golconda Welcomes Arrival of New Ferry; Climaxes Year of Effort

GOLCONDA, Ill. — After 10 long years of driving miles out of the way to a bridge or ferry to get to the Kentucky side of the Ohio river, dozens of Golconda citizens turned out on the riverbank Friday afternoon to welcome the arrival of the town's new ferry.

The boat, which arrived with two power units, is a steel barge capable of carrying six cars or four trucks across the 1,900 yards of water to Kentucky, cutting off many miles of driving to reach several nearby Kentucky towns.

The previous ferry, which plied the river between here and the riverbank in Livingston County, Ky., operated nearly continuously from 1896 to 1946. At the time it closed, the fare for a car was $1 for the 22-minute trip.

The new barge, owned by George Mason of Keokuk, Iowa, and powered by either the gasoline-engine "Denny Jim" power-boat or the diesel "New Boston," which Mason brought with him, is expected to make the river crossing at about the same time.

U. S. Counts on Early Withdrawal Of Anglo-French Forces from Suez

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The United States today counted on an early withdrawal of British and French military forces from the Suez Canal.

Diplomats indicated that London and Paris gave Washington "satisfactory" word on the troop issue before the United States set in motion its emergency oil program for oil-starved Western Europe.

Diplomatic sources said they expected the strained relations in the Western Alliance to begin improving immediately.

Evidence of new assurances on plans for Anglo-French troops with American decision Friday to upset its own timetable for the emergency oil program.

The United States had planned to delay action until next week pending a more "definitive" British statement on troop withdrawals.

The United States announced plans to provide the Europeans with at least 500,000 barrels of oil a day within a month. The Middle East Emergency Committee, a group of 15 major U. S. oil companies, will meet Monday in New York to get the program under way.

The emergency oil move raised the problem of financing increased oil purchases in the Western Hemisphere by Western Europe. Estimates of the cost have ranged as high as $2 billion if the Suez Canal remains closed a year.

U. S. officials said the Europeans are expected to meet the dollar drain themselves "for some initial periods." Some nations may borrow from the U. S. Export-Import Bank.

B52 Burns in California; B47 in Canada

Rescue Operation Underway in Ontario Bush Area

By United Press

Two U. S. Air Force jet bombers, crashed Friday night, killing ten fliers from one and dropping four others alive into a snowy Canadian wilderness.

All 10 men aboard a B52 Stratofortress died when the $8 million plane crashed and buried in a grainfield shortly after taking off from Castle Air Force Base, Calif., the Air Force announced.

The other plane, a B47 Stratojet, burst into flames while flying over Ontario bush country. Its crew of four parachuted safely and a joint Canadian-U. S. rescue operation swung into action today to bring them out.

Air, Land Search

Woodsmen slashed a path through scraggly bush toward a point about 50 miles northeast of Port Arthur, Ont., where the four men were spotted from the air. Search planes were guided to the scene by a fire kindled in the snow-covered underbrush and by the airman's flashlights.

The ground rescuers expected to reach the fliers ahead of aerial rescue parties scheduled to take off at dawn in planes and a helicopter.

The California crash killed six crewmen of the B52 and four instructors who had joined them on a routine training mission.

The plane, attached to the 93rd Bombardment Wing at Castle AFB, crashed about four miles north of the field. The sheriff's office reported one airman was taken from the flaming wreckage alive but paralyzed and died en route to a hospital.

B52 Breaks Up

The B52, one of the 650-mile an hour heavy bombers that make up the backbone of America's Strategic Air Command, apparently bounced several times across the soft ground before breaking up and burning, an Air Force spokesman said.

The $1,900,000 B47 was on a training flight to Canada from Barksdale AFB, a Strategic Air Command base near Shreveport, La., when it ran into trouble over the northern shore of Lake Superior.

Barksdale authorities identified three of the four men aboard as Maj. Robert M. Slane, 33, the commander, Trinidad, Colo.; 2nd Lt. Richard Martin, 33, pilot, Niantic, Conn.; and 1st Lt. Max H. Workman, 29, observer, Roy, Utah.

Actor Charged With Firing at Neighbor's Tractor

HOLLYWOOD (U.P.) — Actor Michael O'Shea has been ordered to appear in court next Wednesday to answer charges that he fired a rifle at a tractor in a neighborhood feud.

The charges were filed by Harold Morrison, O'Shea's neighbor in nearby Van Nuys. They have been feuding for months over the noise made by Morrison's son, Richard, 13.

The boy said O'Shea, husband of actress Virginia Mayo, fired a .22 caliber rifle at a tractor which Richard and a friend were riding near the actor's home.

"I'm a good shot and I shot at the tires, not the boys," O'Shea said. "I blasted them and I'll do it again if they run their cars and tractors around here."

U. S. Ups Refugee Quota to 21,500

President Says U. S. Should Share Burden

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U.P.) — President Eisenhower announced today the United States will offer asylum to 21,500 Hungarian refugees to show America's sympathy for victims of Soviet oppression.

The figure is more than four times the original quota of 5,000.

The President said the United States should share with Austria and other free countries the "emergency problem" created by the Hungarians' flight. He said the government will help arrange for their transportation.

President Still Vacationing White House Press Secretary James Hagerty handed the announcement to newsmen at the presidential vacation headquarters here.

The President said the offer of asylum "would give practical effect to the American people's intense desire to help the victims of Soviet oppression."

The government also will materially assist the government of Austria, "which has responded so generously to the refugees' needs, to carry out its policy of political asylum," the President said.

Mr. Eisenhower said he would ask Congress to enact provisions which would "allow at least some of the escapees" the opportunity of "permanent resettlement in the United States, having in mind particularly the fact that many of those refugees undoubtedly have relatives here."

Wilson Named Arranger The President said he had directed the secretary of defense to work out arrangements bringing the refugees to the United States under agreements to be made with Austria and the Intergovernmental Committee on European Migration.

WHITE IS YULE COLOR

The Christmas colors are accepted as red and green today. But there is a historical basis for this choice. In fact, if we observe the dictates of the church, the true Yuletide color is white.

THIS WEEK AT Dixon Springs

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

The frantic bawling of calves only yesterday removed from their mother's flanks has been replaced by subdued, resigned munching of flaky hay. The rustle of dry leaves plays a low accompaniment to the lonely honk of flying geese as the whirl of combines in fields of lespedeza is stopped by men to note the passing flight. The soft swish of the sampling sickle has given way to the rumbling clatter of the office computer. These are the sounds that mark the season and changes of work on the Station.

The pasture season is ended except for the cow herds, now without their calves, turned out to graze the fields of fescue. So long as the grass lasts and unless covered by snow, fescue will be their diet. When the grass is consumed, feed bunks will be moved on to the pasture, and silage and hay will be fed during the rest of the winter.

Oakley Robinson, our cattle herdsman, would remind us all not to be misled, by this practice of winter grazing, into thinking that we can use the same pasture summer and winter, and not to believe that these are unfertilized, abandoned wastes upon which we expect the herd to shift and skin their way through the winter. These areas for winter grazing have been especially reserved and fertilized.

Oakley would again remind us that the cows on the Station have grown fat on abundant lespedeza pasture and are now in good enough condition to carry them well into the winter. For the less well conditioned or thin cows, he would advise the use of supplementary hay or silage with these wintering pastures.

Oakley would be the first, then, to acknowledge the fine assistance he receives from the pasture crew. This crew, in anticipation of next spring's seed needs, is busy combining in fields of Korean lespedeza, the crop that feeds during late summer grazing and fattens the cows for Oakley's easier wintering program. In addition, the pasture crew is busy combining seed from Sericea lespedeza, the crop that we use on very poor land as a soil builder and for hay.

As we move from the fields to the office, we see reams of paper filled and overflowing into the margins with figures that represent the mountains of forage samples collected last summer by our chief sampler, Wayne Mizell—following rapid-fire computation by our office staff, Bettye Lauderdale and Charlotte Anderson—will reduce and compress the mountainous stack of data into single-page summaries—summaries that will give all of us something to talk about the rest of the winter and that will help each of us to do a better job of farming.

Early Insects

Insects established themselves successfully on earth more than a half-billion years before man appeared, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Iowa grows more than 500,000,000 bushels of corn in an average year, or one-sixth of the entire U. S. crop.

RECORD CORN YIELDS on the University of Illinois Morrow plots followed the same pattern experienced by many farmers as they harvested their 1956 crops. A. L. Lang and L. B. Miller, members of the committee in charge of the nation's oldest soil experiment plots, had to do some careful piling to get all the corn from the top treated plot into the basket. Yields for the treatments shown from left to right were: no treatment since 1876, 29 bushels an acre; manure-lime-phosphate treatment since 1904, 96 bushels; continuous corn with no treatment, 1876 to 1955, and then lime, nitrogen, phosphate and potash, 113 bushels; and manure-lime-phosphate since 1904 plus nitrogen, phosphate and potash in 1955 and 1956, 128 bushels.

Horses and Mules Still on the Decline

CHICAGO — The horse and mule population of the United States continues to decrease, according to 1954 census figures released by the Department of Commerce.

American farms were using 4,141,388 horses and mules in 1954 compared to 7,603,910 in 1950. Of the 1954 total, 538,235 or 13.5 per cent were concentrated in 100 counties.

St. Landry Parish in Louisiana had the highest number of horses and mules—13,897 or 0.3 per cent of the U. S. total. Next in order of heaviest numbers were Apache County and Navajo County in Arizona and McKinley County in New Mexico.

Two New Oat Varieties Available For 1957

URBANA—Limited amounts of the new oat varieties Newton and Logan will be available for 1957, W. O. Scott, University of Illinois crop specialist, announced today. Seed from both these new varieties was increased in Illinois this year. Scott points out that it isn't too early to think about what variety to plant next spring, especially if you want to try one of these new varieties. County farm advisers can usually give sources of seed.

Newton oats were developed and released by Purdue University. This variety matures about the same time as Clinton. It has very good straw and good test weight. Yield records have also been favorable. It is moderately resistant to crown rust and is resistant to race 7 of stem rust, but is susceptible to race 8 of stem rust and to Septoria.

Logan was developed by O. T. Bonnett, University of Illinois plant breeder, from a cross between Benton and Marion. It matures a few days earlier than Clinton and yields well in Illinois. Logan has a yellow kernel with a relatively thin hull. Its straw is about as strong as that of Nemaha.

Some Legume and Grass Seeds May Be Short

URBANA—Farmers may find some legume and grass seed hard to get for 1957 planting. But total supplies should be adequate, even though dry weather cut production this year, says Earl Spurrier, University of Illinois agronomist. The large carryover of 1955 seed will help to bridge over the short 1956 crop.

You should be able to get all the alfalfa and red clover you'll need, even though the seed crop was smaller this year. Carryover from last year will help to make up the difference. Sweet clover could be a little hard to find because of smaller acreage and lower yields.

Spurrier suggests that farmers wanting to seed bromegrass should locate their source of seed now. Producers harvested one fourth less seed this year and the smallest crop in eight years. Only half as much Kentucky bluegrass seed was produced this year as last. But the carryover is the largest in five years.

Timothy also suffered from dry weather, and growers harvested a 45 percent smaller seed crop. But Spurrier says other grasses can replace timothy, so the shortage of that seed may not be critical. More encouraging is the orchardgrass seed picture. The crop is two percent larger than last year, and imports have been high. This grass will make a good substitute for bromegrass or other grasses. Stocks of fescue, bentgrass, perennial ryegrass, annual ryegrass and sudan grass left over from last year will help to fill the shortage in the 1956 grass seed crop, Spurrier says.

Record Crops In Illinois

By United Press
Record crops were general throughout Illinois in 1956.

But the east-southeast section of the state took the honors for total soybean production this year with 25,790,000 bushels. Last year it was the east section, with 19,250,000 bushels which boasted the greatest soybean production.

Honors for highest yield per acre went to the central section, with 38 bushels compared to last year's top of 26 bushels in the northwest, west and central sections.

The 1956 figures are preliminary from the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service at Springfield.

The northwest section turned out more corn than any other area, 104,700,000 bushels, and also had top yield: 74 bushels per acre. Northwest was first in the 1955 crop also, 104,700,000 bushels and 63 bushels per acre.

Ag Department Reports Farm Values to Reach All-Time High

WASHINGTON UP—The Agriculture Department said today the total value of farm assets next Jan. 1 will reach an all-time high of 175 billion dollars—an increase of $5,800,000,000 in a year.

The department said the proprietors' equity—what's left after debts are subtracted—on next Jan. 1 will be a record $155,300,000,000—an increase of $3,900,000,000.

The balance sheet of the nation's agriculture was worked out in the department's publication, "The 1957 Agricultural Finance Outlook."

Department economists predicted "little change" in the financial situation of farmers as a group

Spray For Winter Cattle Lice Control

DIXON SPRINGS—Cattle will go through the winter feeding period in better condition if you treat them for cattle lice.

Dr. M. E. Mansfield, extension veterinarian on the staff of the Dixon Springs Experiment Station of the University of Illinois, says that cattle lice generally increase during the winter. By spring heavily infested animals may have so many lice that their vitality and resistance are lowered and their rate of gain is slowed.

Lice rarely cause the death of cattle, Dr. Mansfield reports. But cattle in poor condition from lice may die if exposed to severe weather. Lousy cattle commonly rub off patches of their hair coat.

Lice spend their entire lives on the animals. The adult females glue the eggs to their hair of the host animal, and these eggs hatch into nymphs within one or two weeks. The nymphs mature into adult lice in another 10 days to three weeks.

Spraying the animals thoroughly in the fall will eliminate this wintertime problem, according to the veterinarian. You can apply the insecticide as a spray, dip or dust, but on most farms a power sprayer or a hand-operate garden-type sprayer is handiest. Just remember that the spray should thoroughly wet the animals. Some farmers have reported getting good control of lice with backrubbers.

Methoxychlor and lindane are the two most widely used insecticides. Apply methoxychlor at a 0.5 percent concentration and lindane at a 0.03 to 0.06 percent concentration in sprays. The amount to use will vary from one-half to two gallons, depending on equipment, size of animal and length of hair coat.

It is important not to wet the animals during cold weather because of the danger of pneumonia or other respiratory trouble.

Nearly all farmers in southern Illinois used the beautiful autumn days advantageously in completing the harvest of bountiful corn and soybean crops.

Reports and observations indicate that there was some trouble with grain shattering out in the field during the harvesting process due to low moisture from a dry September and October. Hence, using livestock to glean the corn fields after picking would seem especially desirable this season for saving as much feed as possible. The livestock undoubtedly will obtain better feeding than they sometimes do from harvested corn fields. However, this should not keep the farmer from supplying animals with some daily feedings of protein supplement. Young cattle may be furnished their extra protein needs by feeding four to six pounds of legume hay to each. Bred sows which are gleaned corn fields need about one to one and one-half pounds of protein supplement per head daily.

With winter nearly here and pastures getting short for the dairy herd, farmers face the problem of feeding more silage or hay and grain, and of better animal housing. When the dairy farmer begins to think of this extra feeding and housing for his cows, he must evaluate each of them anew and decide which ones will pay for their keep. That is the time to cull out the poor producers of milk and calves, keeping only the healthy animals that will show a profit.

This culling practice has importance all the time, whether milk prices are high or low, whether feed is scarce or plentiful, says Howard Olson, dairy specialist at Southern Illinois University. A poor producing cow is an avoidable expense to the farm business. This fact becomes more obvious to the farmer as the cost-price squeeze becomes greater.

Production records on each cow in the herd are necessary if the farmer is to do a good job of deciding which cows are to be sold and which are to remain as a part of the dairy herd. Unfortunately, too few farmers go to the trouble of keeping such records.

Actually the job is not as tedious as he may think. A simple procedure for keeping a running check on the production of each dairy cow is to weigh the milk she produces on one day each month. For example, the farmer may pick December 15 for the milk-weighing day. The operation then would be repeated on or near the 15th of each succeeding month. Multiplying the day's weight for each cow's production by the number of days in the month will give a fairly good record for that month. Totalling the figures for all the months during the cow's lactation period will give her annual production.

When the level of milk production drops below the cost of keeping a cow it is time to cull out the animal for marketing. The average per-cow milk production in Southern Illinois still is considerably below the 6,000 pounds annually which is considered the minimum needed to obtain a profit over feed costs. Therefore, many cows on area farms are "boarders" who are costing their owners money for the fun of keeping them because there are dairy herds on other farms that are producing at a rate considerably above the minimum figure. The dairy farmer always should think in terms of raising the average production rate for his herd by selection, good feeding and management. It is far more profitable to have three good milk cows, each producing 10,000 pounds of milk annually, than to feed and care for seven cows whose total production only equals that of the three.

Net income for the first nine months of 1956 was up 4 per cent over 1955. It was at an annual rate of $11,700,000,000 in the first three quarters, compared with $11,300,000,000 for the whole year 1955.

The Agriculture Department balance sheet showed the value of farm real estate at $106,400,000,000, up $3,700,000,000, or 3.6 per cent, from the first of this year.

Non-real estate assets were valued at $49,200,000,000, up $1,900,000,000, or 4 per cent. Financial, or liquid, assets, were listed at $20,400,000,000, up 200 million dollars, or 1 per cent.

THE NEXT STEP

The speed of modern life tempts us to think of our goals and to forget the importance of a single step. But the men who scale the highest peaks concentrate on one step at a time.

There seem to be plenty of folks with noble aspirations who rarely go to Church. Some of them may reach their goals; but legion are the others whose "one false step" starts an avalanche of broken hopes.

The steady, sincere, every-Sunday church-goer usually has noble aspirations and a far better chance of achieving them! He has learned to study each step by faith and prayer... to test the ground on which he treads... to climb with others in a common quest of the summits of life.

Destiny depends on the next step!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled'

John 14:1-14
GOLDEN TEXT: "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me." (John 14:1)

INTRODUCTION—If I were to go to my mother's bedside and ask what portion of God's Word she would like for me to read, I know what she would say. She would say: "Why, Archie Earl, you know that my favorite scripture is John the 14th chapter."

The disciples had just received a shock. They had just been told that their Leader, their Master, was going to leave them. For almost three years they had been most intimately associated with him. They had seen him perform miracles, and they had sat at his feet to "learn of him."

They fully expected him to establish his kingdom in a short time. They expected him to sit upon David's throne there in Jerusalem and rule the world. They expected to be his high ranking governmental officials.

So, you see, when he told them that he was to soon die, they were shocked. There is a lesson here for all of us.

I YOU NEED NOT FEAR (V. 1-4)
What a message to Christian hearts! You have no need of fear. On every hand there are troubled minds and hearts. We live in a world filled with trouble. Even some Christians are displaying a lack of faith in God by expressing fearful and troubled hearts. One who is fully surrendered to Christ knows no trouble, nor fear.

Do you fret about the future? Are you worried about tomorrow? If you know Christ, you need not fret and worry. My Seminary professor said one day: "I don't know what is ahead, but I do know who is ahead."

II YOU NEED NOT BE CONFUSED (V. 5-11)

Listen to Thomas: "Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?" Are you a Thomas? Then, listen to Jesus' answer: "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

Are you a confused individual in this confused world? If so, you need not be any longer. If you know Christ as your own personal

Savior, that is absolutely all you need. If you are not a Christian, then you are very apt to be a very confused person. You have no real solid foundation for your life. When adversity or sorrow comes you become more frightened and confused. You need salvation. Remember, Christ is the "way, the truth and the life." "There is none other Name given among men whereby ye must be saved."

III YOU CAN HAVE POWER (V. 12-14)

Look at these promises! Some folks look upon Christians as little anemic weaklings. Some Christians think that all they are to do is to sing some hymns, go to church and hope for a greater day. Not so! If you are a Christian, you just do not know the potential power wrapped up within you. Yes, it is power ready to be released. The power of the Holy Spirit is within the fully surrendered, fully dedicated person. You have power for the present day in which you live.

Jesus promises here that you can ask what you will, in his name, and he will do it. Of course, this is conditioned upon the life you are living.

CONCLUSION—Christian friend, perhaps you have not lived up to the great promise. The potential power is within you. You can quit your fretting, get out of your confused state of mind. Live like a Christian. Live a spirit filled, power-packed life. Be a Christian and live it.

Ezzard Charles Retires from Ring

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Former heavy-weight champion Ezzard Charles added a somewhat pathetic note today to Floyd Patterson's triumph over Archie Moore for the world heavyweight boxing championship, announcing his retirement "due to my poor showing in the ring."

Charles, 35, who also won the heavyweight title in Chicago with a 15-round decision over Jersey Joe Walcott, June 22, 1949, telegraphed his decision to retire from his home in Cincinnati to his manager, Tom Tannis, who attended the Moore-Patterson fight.

Carrier Mills Beats Johnston City, 62-48; Fifth Victory of Season

Wildcat Defense Keeps Opponents' Scoring Down

Carrier Mills travelled to Johnston City Friday night and captured its fifth consecutive basketball decision of the season, 62-48. In five games to date the Carrier Mills defense has allowed no team to score more than 50 points and that many only once. Vienna scored an even 50 in the season's opener and Rosiclare, Shawneetown, Cave-In-Rock and Johnston City have failed to reach that mark.

The game was marked by a wild-and-woolly fourth quarter that at times resembled a back alley brawl. Tempers flared and players shoved and pulled, but no one got much more than his feelings hurt.

Johnston City broke the scoring ice with two free throws by Dawes and during the first part of the quarter controlled the rebounding and managed to stay in front or even until a free throw by Rollins, with 1:58 remaining, put CM in front 15-14. Johnston City then pulled even on a free throw by Reed but Cowger and Fitts hit jump shots as the quarter ended to put the 'Cats on top 19-15 and from then on Carrier Mills held the advantage.

CM Wins Preliminary
At one time in the second quarter the 'Cats scored 11 consecutive points to take all doubt out of the game at that stage and at the half CM was in front 36-30. The Wildcats continued to dominate the scoring in the third quarter and held a 50-30 lead as the final frame got underway.

The fourth quarter belonged to Johnston City 18-12, but the six-point advantage wasn't enough to affect the outcome.

Carrier Mills also won the preliminary game, 70-48. Scoring in the preliminary: Carrier Mills: B. Smith 11, Mitchell

20, Taborn 18, Nolen 1, Manier 12, Williams 4, Reeder 2 and Davis 2; Johnston City: Mitchell 7, Schwarm 7, Crawford 2, Bearden 7, Goodman 3, Dasette 2, Litton 10, Erwin 2 and Buskirk 9.

Next game for Carrier Mills is Saturday, Dec. 8, when the Wildcats visit Davenport gymnasium to meet the local Bull Dogs.

Galatia, Equality, Ridgway Win Cage Victories

Galatia and Equality won Greater Egyptian conference games Friday night and another conference member—Ridgway—went outside the loop to pick up a victory.

Galatia travelled to Pope County to pick up its second GEC victory in three starts, winning by a score of 68-55.

Paced by McFarland and Cantrill with 23 and 21 points respectively, Galatia held the advantage at the end of every quarter, jumping out to a 14-8 first period lead and was never headed.

Coach John Cherry's team showed good scoring balance, with seven breaking into the point making department, although there was a big spread between the second and third high scorers.

Tonight Galatia entertains a non-conference opponent, Sesser, and expected to be a big gun in the visitors' play is Larry Marker, who moved from Galatia to Sesser shortly after the close of first school term.

Equality, beginning to roll after a slow start, won its first GEC contest and second victory of the season by beating Cave-In-Rock 56-50. Equality has lost three this season.

The winners were paced by the sharp shooting of Emery and Harlin Barnett, who scored 17 and 18 points. Bill Shore of Cave scored 19 points to take honors for the evening.

Equality started quickly and had a 12-5 quarter lead and maintained the advantage all the way. Ridgway buried Crossville under a 81-39 barrage, with Captain Pat Lawler and Sophomore Roger Suttner leading the way.

Suttner scored 34 points, grabbed 43 rebounds and blocked 17 Crossville shot attempts. Also two Crossville players attempting to guard Suttner fouled out.

Lawler had 26 points and took 35 rebounds. Ridgway really controlled the boards, taking a total of 109 rebounds during the game.

Ridgway faces a full week of play, entertaining Enfield Tuesday, going to Rosiclare Friday and playing host to Eldorado Saturday.

Robinson and Aparicio Named Rookies of Year

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Heavy hitting Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs and fancy fielding Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox were named today as the major league Rookies of the Year in the annual voting by the Baseball Writers of America.

Robinson, 20-year-old left fielder who hit 38 home runs, was the unanimous choice of the 24-man selection committee in the National League.

Aparicio, 22, one of the finest shortstops to reach the majors in years, was named on all but two American League ballots.

Carmi Forced to Go All Out to Beat Eldorado Eagles, 51 to 48

Eagles Will Meet Bull Dogs Tonight At Davenport Gym

The Eldorado Eagles forced Carmi's big, veteran team to go all the way Friday night before bowing 51-48 in a basketball game played at Carmi. It was the season's opener for Eldorado and Carmi's third game of the 1956-57 cage year.

Eldorado, with a group of inexperienced players, was considered to be one of the weaker teams in the area, but didn't look the part last night.

It was a close game from the start, although Eldorado failed to hold a lead at the end of any one quarter.

Carmi, with big Mike McCombs scoring six points in the opening quarter, held a 14-12 lead after the first period, 28-25 at the half and after three quarters Carmi's lead was 46-36.

Leonard Willis, junior guard, paced Eldorado's scoring with 18 points while Larry Bell was tops for Carmi with 15.
